MEET OMAR

Omar began his career in private accounting at a publicly traded Fortune 500 company and a major Japanese conglomerate before starting his public career at a small firm in 2008. His previous experience also includes private company services at a big four accounting firm. Omar has since focused on helping small businesses, especially construction, distribution and manufacturing clients prepare audits to support financial growth. Omar also helps small business like law firms by auditing employee benefit plans.

RESULTS

- Managed audit for construction clients with multi-billion dollar joint venture projects disentangling intercompany transactions and properly allocating share assets, liabilities and equity.
- Acted as an interim controller for a growing company during a dynamic period of change. Led accounting team in transition to a new accounting platform.
- Led financial regulatory team to make federal agency filings on time for a national utility.
